They were assisted by Deacons Frank Johnson, George Scruggs and Judge McDaniels. Mrs. Lewis, mother of J. F. Lewis sang a beautiful solo. Remarks were given by Deacon Lewis' father, and the Rev. J. The Carver Price girl's basketball team experienced its best year. Its season record was undefeated. Last Saturday they won the tournament trophy. They were presented two beautiful trophies, one for the season and one for the District. Several individual members won special trophies and certificates.

The public is invited to attend the regular evening services at the Promise Land Baptist Church this second Sunday evening at 7:30. Mrs. Annie Harvey will sponsor the program.

Impressive services were held at the Galilee Baptist Church last Sunday morning. The Rev. Mr. Shelton, field missionary of the Hasadiah Baptist Association was the guest speaker. Rev. Shelton delivered a soul stirring sermon from the subject: "The Lord's Banquet Table". Several visitors attended the service.

To all the local churches in Appomattox we are calling upon you to help in the annual Red Cross Drive. The month of March has been proclaimed as Red Cross month by our President and the need for contributions is great at home and abroad. We ask each member to give as freely as he can. As local chairman I am asking all leaders in local church communities to please make your report to me as soon as possible. Let us all try to make all reports during the month of March.

The local Appomattox Teachers Association held its regular meeting on Monday at 3:30 p.m. with the president, E. T. Johnson, presiding. The professional improvement committee reported The association will be prepared at the State meeting this Friday by Mr. Edwards and our president.

To Pay Tribute

Prince Edward Civil War Centennial Committee has arranged an excellent program commemorating the last days of the Confederacy. The event at Farmville will conclude a seven-day commemoration to be held in the area, and will be the last of a series of commemorative programs during the past four years in Virginia and other states. It follows by one day the program commemorating the surrender of Lee's Army at Appomattox Court House, and incidently is the last event of the Centennial in the nation.

The theme: The return home of the finest, fightiest army this nation has ever known. The Army of Northern Virginia, Lees command.

An artillery company will return through Farmville with its guns, possibly not knowing the surrender had taken place, pursued by federal cavalry. Following it will be the hungry, bedraggled soldiers on their way home, with their wagons and mules.

The scene will change. A parade in all its pomp and glory, martial music, and colorful cavalry, infantry and artillery units led by the Union Army, followed by Confederate Units in sparkling gray, will wend its way through Farmville streets. On last salute by the artillery will close the Civil War Centennial depicting the rebirth of a United Nation, "under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all".

Farmville must roll out the red carpet for this historic event, and the several thousands of visitors and hundred of guests on March 5 from Farmville Herald parent probability that for the first time in many, many years Virginia will have no statewide primary contests for Lieutenant Governor or General in 1965.

Appomattox Seventh-day Adventist Church
Earnest D. Clark, Pastor
When the World's Fair opens for its season on April 21 in Flushing Meadows', the Seventh-day Adventist Illumadrama presentation in the Protestant and Otherdox Center will be portrayed with only minor changes according to word from the church's headquarters in Washington, D.C.
The exhibits depicts the second coming of Christ with a 10 by 20 foot oil painting, moving light sound effects and a narration of Scripture describing Christ's second coming.
The major change in Illumadrama will be the discontinuance of a weekly drawing for a 10 volume set of Bible text illustrated in three dimensions. Guests at the exhibit will receive a full-color reproduction of the backdrop paintin by Artist Howard Sanders.
Religion is expected to continue as a major interest at the World's Fair, as it was last year when one out of every two visitors to the Fair took in at least one of the eight religious pavilions on the fairgrounds.
March 14 has been designated World's Fair Sunday' as Protestant churches across the country untie in planning for the 1965 season of witnessing at the Protestant and Otherdox Center. Collections will be taken at churches to support the pavilion in 1965.

Youth Speaks
By Dan Williams
There is one question that people today have many different answers to. But the Bible has only one answer to this question. Which is: What must I do to be saved? We have many people that believe their good works will stand and get them through. The Bible says that there would be many in that day that would say Lord, How it not done thee and thus in thou name and cast out demons in thou name, and Jesus said I say unto them depart from me for it never knew you. It is not by our works or the life we live, nor was it by the will of man that we are saved. The Bible says in Eph. 2:5, Even when we were dead in sins, hath quickened us together with christ (by grace are ye saved) Still you may ask. What must I do to be saved? The Bible says in Romans 10:9-10 "that if thou shal believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead thou shalt be saved. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness: and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation.

Feed Grain Rates Described

Farmers taking part in the 1965 feed grain program may get the top rate of payment on the entire acreage diverted into conserving uses if they sign up and actually divert at least 40 percent of the farm's feed grain base, J. A. Martin, Chairman, Appomattox County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, reminded growers today.

The key figures for estimating diverted acres and diversion payments are 20, 40, and 50, the Chairman explained. The minimum diversion under the feed grain program is 20 percent of the feed grain base. The maximum diversion is 50 percent of the base. And there are two diversion payment rates.

If the grower signs up and diverts only the minimum acreage his diversion payment will be figured at the lower rate—one fifth of the county's total price support rate (price support loan plus the price support payment).

If the grower diverts between 20 and 40 percent of his base, the lower rate applis to the minimum diversion and the higher rate to the balance diverted. he higher rate is one-half the county's total support rate.

But if the grower signs up and actually diverts at least 40 percent of the base, the hiaher rate will apply to the entire acreage diverted.

Farmers signing up in both the wheat and feed grain programs may divert other feed grains or wheat under the program's substitution plan, and in this case the diversion payments will be based on the actual crop reduced. Under this plan, any acreage credited to diversion from feed grains in excess of the signed intention would be paid for at the minimum feed grain diversion rate.

The feed grain program for 1965 is basically the same as In 1964. It is voluntary and applies to corn, grain sorghum and barley. Participating farmers may qualify for diverted acres payments and price support payments, and they will be eligible for price support loans on their corn, grain sobum and barley.

Chairman Martin points out that signing up is a necessary first step in taking part in the feed grain program. The signup period extends through March 26. It will be held at the ASCS County Office.

Review Granted In Pipeline Case

The Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals agreed March 3 to review a second case involving the question whether the Colonial Pipeline Co. has the statutory authority to condemn private land in Virginia.

The court accepted an appeal of William H. Ferguson from an order of Williamsburg Circuit Court giving Colonial a 4.5 acre easement on Ferguson's land in James City county.

Previously, the court agreed to review a Chesapeake Circuit Court decision which permitted Colonial to condemn land of the Peek Iron and Metal Co.

Both appeals involve essentially the same question —whether Colonial is a public service corporation and a common carrier authorized to condemn interests in land.

Colonial is building a multi-million - dollar pipeline from Texas to New Jersey to transport liquid petroleum products.

Ferguson said in his appeal that the lower court lacked jurisdiction to hear the matter because Colonial failed to obtain a certificate of convenience for the project from the State Corporation Commission.

Ferguson was allowed $7,500 for an easement across property he owns in James City County. The Peek firm was given 5,500 for a five-acre easement.

DID YOU KNOW that "batch clorination" will sanitize your drinking water after a well has been cleaned out"? Bacteria introduced in such a procedure is not necessarily "wash away" by using the water. Chlorinating should be done every time you work on pipes or pump connected with your water supply. Call your Health Department for details.
